Fire Nazis must die!

Another complaint of the chief was that there was too much black and other colored upholstery. "We should have pure white couches - the Master Race of couches," he commented, then walked away, performing a straight-arm salute to punctuate the end of his sentence.

The Pasadena Fire department has offered to take away the old "inferior" couches, either to be "washed" or put to work as furniture in Siberia.

The Fire department has already hired a number of people to act on the General Esthetic and Safety Task Association and GESTAPO. The GESTAPO will walk through the houses and immediately remove anything found to be below their exacting standards. Said one member, "We don't want anything manufactured by Jews or Gypsies."

Shannon also was the spokesman for his political party, the Mars Society. Other members of the party expressed outrage at the outcome and vowed to increase their efforts. Many renewed their tithings to Shannon after the defeat, vowing to take perform periodic unannounced inspections of rooms to check the smoke detectors. "Raid's is such a strong word. These are for your own safety. Naturally, we would also have to remove any unsafe or inferior furniture from the rooms."

The PFD says that it is true the lounges look bare without any decoration. They have suggested several ideas for banner in place of couches, including iron eagles, large swastikas, and pictures of the fire chief's face.

The chief also hopes to raise fire safety awareness with a handpicked Safety Society (SS). He has been drilling them on the proper method of helping people think responsibly. "They look good, goose-stepping in those high boots and tan uniforms," beamed the chief.

The PFD chief concluded the interview by announcing "I am the Führer of the new lounge!"

Mars Society political drive stumbles

Shannon, one of the more prominent political figures of the day, was shocked with the outcome but persistent in his future hopes. He offered the comment, "I'm sure that with enough saturation propaganda and improntu discourse the entire student body will eventually agree with me on the merits of Mars exploration and on my appointment as ASCIT UDAL."

Shannon is also the spokesman for his political party, the Mars Society. Other members of the party expressed outrage at the outcome and vowed to increase their efforts. Many renewed their tithings to Shannon after the defeat, vowing to take more units and write more Mars-related papers in the near future.

Most of the uninvolved and totally apathetic undergraduates also had virtually no comment about the matter. One did offer the remark: "Well, I just couldn't vote for a guy I didn't know who argues for a cause that I just don't care about."

Next year brings new curriculum offerings

Dr. Brennen expressed his enthusiasm over the new offerings. "We feel these new classes will expand the Caltech curriculum in directions it's been historically lacking." Dr. Brennen especially offered enthusiasm for a few classes in particular, "I'm especially proud of our pioneering series, Sx lab."

The somewhat controversial class will cover diverse topics in human reproduction and will be titled "Theory of Procreation" in the upcoming catalog. The class will start being offered first term next year, much to the dismay of the current senior class. As one Ricketts House senior offered, "I've been waiting all my life for this moment. I feel the knowledge and techniques this class and its lab course offer are truly the most applicable skills I could have learned at Caltech."

Other undergraduates also praise the additional classes, especially offering their support to Sx 1. One sophomore could only say, "It's the absolute best in stress reduction, or at least that's what my friends back home tell me."

While the majority of the Caltech student body seem supportive of the new measures, there is still resistance from the the students to the new offerings.

Credit Union to punish political coura ged to sleep during the and construction-related documents have been immeasurably set back in their studies due to the lack of a proper Coffeeshop. Damages are estimated to be on the order of 51 credits, and a record number of Freshmen have been until now inexplicably not submitting a single work of their classes. Now that all documents essentially to the completion of Coffeehouse renovation have been reported, the Coffeehouse can be once again expected to remain indefinitely closed.

Weekly since Budget was passed

ASCIT's latest estimates for this quarter's embezzlement

There are a few dissenting opinions. Curtis Smith, a current sophomore, could only comment, “Although I like the attempts at new things to make me happy, I’m not sure this is the right approach.” Others agreed, with such comments as “I really don’t like touching people.” Most freshmen seemed to be under the opinion that the opposite gender still bore such fanciful contortions as “cooties.”

Despite the misgivings, the faculty are giving the new approach a go, with most of the new courses premiering next year.

The course Sax 1a will have a preregistration cap of twenty, and the first lecture will be a general overview of the practical side of the subject given by Jean-Paul Revel.
horoscopes

Aries
March 21 - April 19
You will come to the realization that you should never have removed that tag from your mattress.

Taurus
April 20 - May 20
Tonight, at 11:35, you will develop an inexplicable desire to work on a problem set that is not due until Monday. A helpful gremlin will come by to whack you on the head with a 5 foot piece of PVC. The gremlin will then perform Tchaikovsky’s Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy on a kazoo.

Gemini
May 21 - June 21
Don’t read the rest of these horoscopes! You will spontaneously combust like the Mayor of Warsaw in 1496 if you read the horoscope for Libra.

Cancer
June 22 - July 22
Today is a good day for you. Unfortunately, you have already missed all the good bits. Well, almost all the good bits. There’s still that hilarious bit where Lister’s Confidence and Paranoia become real.

Leo
July 23 - Aug. 22
The Sun is in Libra, the Moon is in Pisces. You’ve got the urge, but you shouldn’t splurge. Wait until tomorrow to do that. Sometimes you can follow a hunch, but that’s not recommended now. If you want to give a gift, fine. If you want a good deal, wait.

You are lucky in love today. Yes, even here at Caltech. Don’t ask me how I know you’re at Caltech; I know everything. Gemini look favorable, but they’re all dead now. Be careful when cleaning up their ash. People (like all organic materials) produce a chemical when burnt that is known to the State of California to cause cancer, birth defects, and reproductive damage.

Tomorrow you will wake up, like you have every other morning of your life, except for those mornings when you stayed up for ASCIT doughnuts and didn’t get them. Your feelings of anger will drag down an otherwise pretty rotten day. Mmm... donoughts.

Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 19
You will flame out twice.

Aquarius
Jan. 20 - Feb. 18
Pasona, California: Friday. Mostly clear. Highs in the 80s to around 90s. Lows in the mid 40s to mid 50s. Temperatures and clear skies to continue throughout the weekend until early next week.

Pisces
Feb. 19 - Mar. 20
The future is whatever you make it of it. It stretches before you like an unwritten book, just waiting for you to spill ink on it. Although, no one really uses ink wells anymore, do they? I suppose if your pen broke...

Anyway, that’s not the point. The point is that your future is determined with absolute certainty and free-will is an illusion. You will be ubiquitous and read this setence. See how easy it is.

In a surprise move this week, the current titan of International Terrorism, Flanagan Murphy, was ousted by a split-second pulse while riding his limo out of Dublin this week. The event was claimed to be caused by such nefarious rivals as the Gang of Twenty, the Free-Irish Freemens, the CIA, and Dr. Kevorkian. With some Patton-pandering investigatory work, however, the Inside World has tracked the actual culprit to our current International Terrorist of the Week, Akhmed Zewail.

Dr. Zewail is known throughout the world for his savage yet sophisticated acts of violence and mayhem. The motive for his recent exploit seems to be a long-time feud over terrorist collaboration, or as his press release puts it: “whether to bond quickly or not.”

His nomination for this esteemed international award was certainly put on the forefront by his latest acts, yet it is supported by a long tradition of cutting-edge terrorism.

As Theodore Spyette, chairman of the ITTW committee put it, “Akhmed has long been a strong contender for the prize, but it was this beautiful act, culminating a long string of insider connections and strong political play, that finally set us over the top.”

The decision was lauded by Zewail’s supporters, and even a few detractors. One of his former lackeys, George Hasenbrot, could only comment, “You really must respect a man who’s ruthless enough to dispose of all shreds of humanity, instilling fear and loathing into the poor lackeys who work for him.”

Such sentiment was echoed by his underground lab’s spokesperson, Abe Xia. “Though I cannot say I always appreciate the tough love of Akhmed calling in from Egypt at 3 a.m. to make sure everyone’s in lab, you have to respect an SOB who can pull it off with such style.”

This award has been cited as a culmination of a long string of smaller, pitiful-by-comparison awards. Egypt was once shaken down by Dr. Zewail for a national stamp celebrating his plundering of their national treasures. When asked what else Dr. Zewail would pursue to better his fame, he could only comment that atomic research looked like a promising line of inquiry. We at the Inside World wish Dr. Zewail the best.

GREAT FLEM COUNT TO BEGIN
WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) - The US Fish and Wildlife Service announced yesterday that the Great Flem Census (GFC) would begin within the end of the year. "It has been too long since the last GFC," said Fish and Wildlife spokesman Jeff Harold. "We need to gather an accurate count of the Flem to decide what course of action to take about them in the future."

"The GFC was meant initially as a protective measure for the Flem, who, due to their dense nature, were dying out too quickly," said Dr. Jay Stevenson, professor of zoology at the San Diego Wild Animal Park. "Now, it seems our measures have been too effective, we’ve got Flem crawling everywhere. Something must be done about them."

Reports of Flem sightings have been increasing in the past few years. "They’re getting more brash," said Jeb, a redneck farmer. "They just sit there staring at by shotgun barrel. They’re all over! In my corn, in the manure, everywhere!"

Data from the Flem Census will be analyzed to determine the most effective means of Flem control.

CONGRESS DECLARES: PAGE HOUSE SMELLS
WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) - Yesterday, the Senate passed H.R. 1425, the "Page House Odor Act," by a unanimous vote bringing Page House one step closer to receiving justice. H.R. 1425, presented to the House floor four days ago by Rep. Cunningham (R-CA) and Rep. Capps (D-CA) was passed unanimously within two minutes and sent to the Senate. President Clinton is expected to sign the bill later this week.

"There’s really no argument about this bill," said Rep. Capps. "No one can doubt that Page House smells, but until now, we have had no means of recourse." The Capps-Cunningham bill was a key issue in getting the two representatives reelected.

"It’s about time," said a local Page House neighbor. "Every morning, I can feel the stench of Page House wafting over. It’s all but killed by lawns and olive trees."

This is a great step in cutting down on odor pollution in California," said EPA administrator Carol M. Browner, one of the chief proponents of this bill. "For the past three administrations, we have been ardently pleading to have Page House officially recognized as a smell House, but we’ve met with no success until now.

There are some still that criticize the bill as being too mild. "Page House does not just smell, it stinks," said Alfred B. Newman, professor of ecology at a nearby university, who was the person that initially began calling for the bill. "I’m resubmitting my proposal to the EPA to upgrade Page House’s status from smells to stinks. A rating of smells just will not do."

Already in the works is H.R. 1523, the "Page House Sucks Act," supported by the Department of Interior. The Act is expected to pass the House and Senate within the week, and to be signed by President Clinton by the end of next week.

DARB PASSES DRUG TEST: AUTHORITIES ALARMED
PASADENA, CA (AP) - Authorities were greatly alarmed yesterday when a D arb passed a drug test. Authorities would not release the name of the clean D arb, for fears of panic spreading throughout the community.

"This is absolutely amazing," said Sgt. Guslick, Pasadena PD. "I noticed he was acting almost sane, so I took him in for questioning. I had no idea he was clean!" Lab results were returned to Pasadena PD five in the morning yesterday.

Dr. Jack Leok, leading researcher and expert of D arb history tried to explain this incident. "It is quite possible that this D arb has grown an immunity to the effects of hallucinogens. It is quite disturbing. We must make sure that he is quarantined immediately, so that other Darbs don’t pick up his immunity."

Local residents were alerted of this shocking incident. "We don’t like change here, we like our Darbs stoned and incoherent."

Dabney House could not be contacted for a comment, but massive panic is expected to erupt soon within the peaceful house.
