Blacker Scene Of Fall Formal Dance

Last Friday night in the City House House was the scene of festivities during the annual fall formals. A large crowd of students, alums and others turned out to the inevitable dinner dance, which was held in the City House, with the students in the main room and the alums in the lounge.

A Roman Holiday

Thursday was a Roman Holiday, and the lounge was decorated with a plethora of crepe paper, giving the atmosphere of the old country.

Music for the affair was furnished by over 20 call students and their new orchestra.

Nothing is officially scheduled for Vespers, although sev eral small parties in the lounges have been planned for those remaining in the house over the weekend.

Preparations are now being made for the informal dance Dec. 6th, and while as yet the theme has not been disclosed those attending the dance will Blacker will once again carry out their decorations. Last year's red carpet, with a W' Week end" won the laurels for Blacker.

Friday Night Dinner for non-scholarship men

Dolney run wild Friday nights holding their formal dinner dances at the athletic club. This was quite appropriate considering the type of sport we were going on. A lot of old sheds show, and the ballroom was being one of the best in the well-illuminated regions where the only one recognized.

One particularly forgettable part of the party was the Bob Barlowing that was there all the time. Good King was everywhere, igniting his great desire to the rest of the bourmet immensely emptying the fields to competition he slyly amused his name.

Your equally shrewd reporter did manage to get a glimpse of the young lady's dress on this occasion. Mrs. L. and Mr. B. Boss (Janet) were cutting some very elegant capers on the dance floor. When not dancing they were found (a) stacking up more coctails (b) serving coffee (c) none of your business.

But here at Tech there is not one man on the squad who would raise a squeak, reach any man in the student body, about the way Coach handled the team.

Pride Coaches

Andy and Pete would doze off in the winter for the type in which they shaped the varsity and stood up and swung it out the way they played.

The Beavers was not a school in the Conference that definitely beat us, or that didn’t have to put out until the end of the season to win column. We hit harder, ran and fought harder than any other man in the league. Only the factor kept us out of the top of the -the lack of depth.
