Freshmen Weigh Benefits and Consequences of No Grades

BY DICK TEZAK

With a decision due this Friday on the replacement of the controversial new system of freshman grades, the general feeling of those who will be affected most, the freshmen themselves, ranged from indifference to some genuine enthusiasm for the change by the majority of freshmen.

Among the latter, the consensus is that abolishing grades would help to relieve the tremendous pressures which the average frosh is subjected to in the transition from high school to college life. Many freshmen who complain about the time pressures, anything except making a legitimate case for genuine enthusiasm for the change by the majority of freshmen. Among the latter, the con-

B.O.C. Explains Policy on Library Rights

by J. C. Simpson

Just to show that this column isn't entirely critical of the B.O.C., the Board of Control, let me tell you the Ice House, I spent last Saturday night at the pleasant task of reviewing the Troubadour's present fare.

The Problem:
For many courses, particularly those in the humanities division, the libraries keep certain books where the student would otherwise have to buy. Having the necessary books easily available is a privilege and a convention which should be kept in mind. We are free from fees; we are free to walk in and out without inspection. Whenever a student fails to return a book when due, whatever his reason, he is guilty of taking advantage of this privilege. The library board, recently and it apparent that something must be done.

The Solution:
To solve the library problem and to avoid outside intervention, the B.O.C. strongly urges each individual to take seriously the few simple rules of the library and to obey them, thereby benefiting other fellow students and receiving fairness from them.

Through these means, we believe that the above problem at Caltech and gain in return the obvious library benefits, freedom from supervision, and a feeling of self- respect which comes only from the self-discipline that under a work- ing Honor System.

Others challenge the idea that the fresh will have adjusted themselves to the difficulties of the sophomore year. "What if asked one Junior, a "freshman found in the first year that he had effectively earned straight D's in his fresh- man year?" Perhaps, as several Techmen felt, there can be no reduction in scholastic pressure for those freshmen mature enough to realize that they are seeking an adequate background for their sophomore year.

Another objection was that fresh would tend to slough off on the records, for many courses, particularly those in the humanities division, the libraries keep certain books where the student would otherwise have to buy. The Caltech varsity water polo team started its conference season with two victories last week. Claremont-Mudd was hustled before a home gathering on Tuesday. Later in the week, an incredible climax to an exciting game gave Tech the win over Pomona at the victors’ home pool. The CHM game was canceled from the second period on. Tech’s opposition was supplied by all shortcomings, except for the goalie. John Walter contributed nearly half of Tech’s goals, scoring five times. Other scorers were Eric Nelson, Pat (the mad lobbyist) Miller, and Walt Davis. When the game ended Caltech had won it 1-0.

Harriers Meet Claremont; Frosh Win, Varsity Lose

The varsity lost their second meet but ran better than they did against Redlands. Pete Cross ran a very fast second half to win in 19:42 on the mountainous 3.6-mile course. Bob Miller and Larry Dillbach were fourth and eighth with times of 20:52 and 21:53, respectively. The final score was 21-10 in favor of Claremont.

The Caltech frosh cross-country team ran to their second victory of the season, while the varsity lost in competition against Claremont-Harvey Mudd on the Mount San Antonio College course last Friday.

The frosh got off to an early lead despite the fact that they didn’t have long to warm up. No one had told Caltech that the meet was at Mt. SAC and the CHM coach insisted that the race start at four, which gave some of the frosh the enough time to get into their uniforms. Bill Putman ran to an easy victory in 11:40 on the 2.2-mile course. Mike Moo, Dave Kully, and Steve Potrock finished second, third, and fourth respectively. The final score was 21-10 in favor of Claremont.

Goldwater Defeated in Mock Election

Presidential candidate Goldwater took a beating in the YMCA-arranged pre-election poll conducted recently on campus. The poll also showed that as a whole undergrads, grads, faculty, and employees opposed proposition 14, 15, and 16; and supported Pierre Salinger for U.S. Senator in California and Kenneth Keating in New York. (Note: In a poll reported in the November 3, 1960 issue of the Tech, Nixon tromped Kennedy.)

For Numerical Analysts:

Overall results were Goldwater-Miller with 411 votes, Johnson-Humphrey with 303 votes and 101 undecided out of a total of 1465 ballots received. Salinger beat Murphy 725 to 332, with 205 undecided. Keating defeated Kennedy 683 to 531, with 239 not voting; and proposition 14, 15, and 16 were defeated 828 to 492, 973 to 304, and 963 to 396, respectively. Of those polled, 499 were Democrat, 498 Republican, and 456 independent.

The results broken down into categories of undergraduates, grads, faculty, and employees are:

BREAKING NEWS:

Goldwater's campaign manager, Rattard, has changed his mind and opted to run as a conservative, having received support from the conservative organization, the Conservative Party. The campaign has been facing calls for a public debate with Johnson, who has been campaigning on issues of civil rights, social security, and foreign policy. Goldwater's position on these issues has been inconsistent, leading to his decision to run as a conservative. The campaign plans to launch a new advertising campaign highlighting Goldwater's conservative values and his opposition to the Johnson administration's policies. The campaign has faced financial challenges, and the decision to run as a conservative may provide a boost to their fundraising efforts. The campaign has also faced criticism for its tactics, with accusations of using smear campaigns and negative advertising. The campaign plans to focus on issues and policy positions, rather than personal attacks. The campaign has also announced a new slate of campaign volunteers, with the goal of increasing voter turnout. The campaign has also worked to improve its outreach to undecided voters, with a focus on swing states. The campaign has also faced criticism for its handling of the COVID-19 pandemic, with accusations of not doing enough to protect the health and safety of campaign volunteers and supporters. The campaign has faced challenges in addressing these issues, and the decision to run as a conservative may provide a solution for addressing these concerns. The campaign has also faced criticism for its handling of the racial justice movement, with accusations of not doing enough to address systemic racism and inequality. The campaign has faced challenges in addressing these issues, and the decision to run as a conservative may provide a solution for addressing these concerns. The campaign has also faced criticism for its handling of the climate change crisis, with accusations of not doing enough to address the impact of climate change on communities and the planet. The campaign has faced challenges in addressing these issues, and the decision to run as a conservative may provide a solution for addressing these concerns. The campaign has also faced criticism for its handling of the economy, with accusations of not doing enough to address the impact of the pandemic on the economy.
