Beckman Hosts Classical Pianist James Dick

by Jeff Malley

Had you ever wondered how a concert is interrupted by the interminable bungling of fanatics? It is hard to hear Bach over the whir of the electronic signs: ‘Introduce yourselves!’ ‘Get Your Revenge—James Dick is coming to Tech on Interhouse night (Nov. 13) to talk to Beckman with the innumerable sounds of Belsham, Schuman, and Lin.

Dick, who was included in this year edition of Outstanding Young Men of America, is being sponsored by the Institute of International Education of New York, which administers Fulbright awards as the first American concert artist to perform a major recital in recent UN Glendale by 4:00 p.m.

Remember! Only nine more days until Intehouse!

Leisure Library Needs Suggestions

by Ned Neches

What do you like to read for pleasure and profit? Call Don McNamara at 2418 or drop him a note at Millikan and then wait a few weeks until the books are on the shelf at the Judy Library in Baxter Hall.

Clinton Judy was a distinguished Chairman of Humanities for two decades, and on his death his friends purchased most of his books for a library.

The idea is strictly for borrowing and enjoyment. The Judy Library—off the Public Affairs Room—is already equipped with easy chairs and tables.

But anach of the Judy collection, while rare, is not what the divisional library committee thinks students will want for browsing. So the rare material is to be sold Scathes and the money used to buy hard back and paperbacks of immediate interest to students. About $7,000 is currently available for book purchases.

So, what do Techers want? Best science! Science fiction! The art of seduction! Books on ecology, Viet Nam, China today? Or perhaps a pleasant place to play chess. When the sun slants in the windows it is a perfect spot to squat.

Dr. Judy’s memory will be preserved in many of his books and also framed letters from friends as Aikos Huxley. But the library needs more books to come alive. So write or call collect to 2418 and the library will reflect vibrant wishes.

An Evening With Amédée

by Clayton Hawkefield

A week ago Saturday evening, I found myself in an unusual position. Following the football team’s loss, the University Food Service dinner, there was not much left to do. With the big games in sports, the other teams, for 10 p.m. that night, there was not even time enough to go out for an evening of entertainment.

With about a hour and a half to kill between the football game and the University Auditorium to see what was happening. According to the playbill, the evening’s show was called Amédée, or Comment s’en Délararer. Must be one of those foreign flicks, I thought, with English subtitles.

It as turned out, the subtitles man must have gotten the night off. Anyway, there was this guy sitting around in some sort of bathrobe, trying to read a book. Then this lady came in and they jabbered at one another in some foreign language. Finally, a bell rang offstage, and things started to happen. The man got up, and got the lady’s hat and coat, which she put on, and then she started walking back and forth along the edge of the stage. After a couple of times she stopped, and climbed up atop a high stool, which stood in front of a panel with oversize light bulbs. Bells in the other lights started ringing, and the lady began picking up what appeared to be telephone receivers. Obviously she was somebody’s answer (pun not intended) to Pacific Telephone.

Shortly afterward, she hopped down, did the walking is-look-for-die bit, and started talking to the man. I started glancing at my watch, but a loud rumbling drew my attention back to the stage. Suddenly, from the right side of the stage, shot two-foot-high Wild Dogs—The Wolves of the Siberian tundra, with oversize light bulbs. Bells in the other lights started ringing, and the lady began picking up what appeared to be telephone receivers. Obviously she was somebody’s answer (pun not intended) to Pacific Telephone.

In conclusion, Dr. Brown observed, what is needed is to keep track of what has been done already, and to use that knowledge to improve the situation in the future.

Y Seminar Wednesday To Explain Role of Livable World Council by Claude Anderson

Albert Gore, senior Senator from Tennessee, will lead a seminar on “The Role of the Council for a Livable World in Washington” next Wednesday, 3:30 p.m., in Millikan Lounge. The two hour seminar was initiated by a request from Senator Gore, and is sponsored by the Caltech Y.

Senator Gore served in the House of Representatives from 1973-1975, and in the Senate from 1953-1971. During his tenancy in the Senate, he served for book great foreign relations, international revenue taxation, and worked on visas. He was the chairman of the subcommittee on arms control, international law, and was involved in committee work in the senator race last November, he has not had much time to give the public. This summer he accepted a position on the Board of Directors of the United Nations.

Through this he has continued his struggle for power, peace, arms control, and the United Nations. He is interested in the
This is the article that has Johnny Cash as a sort of Woody Guthrie. Johnny Cash wrote the songs, including the "Singin' in Vietman Talkin' Blues," which would have done Woody proud. Another song is "Neil Kelly," about the Australian outlaw (outlaw) whom Mick Jagger played in a recent movie.

There are songs of a new gospel type, such as "The Preacher Said Jesus said..." and "I Talk to Jesus Every Day." There are songs of love and sadness. It is a human album, far more so than the plastic harmonies of a Merle Haggard or a Buck Owens.

Johnny Cash makes a distinction between Johnny Cash Before Television and After Television. I like Johnny Cash A.T. and better, and I like "Man in Black."

Live Yardbirds (featuring Jimmy Page), Epic 30615

This is a historic album, if nothing else. It was one of the last major Yardbirds concerts, and Jimmy Page was already working on forming Led Zeppelin. The concert was sort of a "one last time" for things like "Over, Under, Sideways, Down," and "The Fantastic&quot; of Things." "Dunking Muddy Waters" is on the album, as is a Jimmy Page instrumental spotlight entitled "White Stamma." The album and the group come to their climax on a twelve-minute version of "I'm a Man." As one of the group remarked in the background, "Nosalga". If you liked the Yardbirds, you will like the album. If not, you won't.

Man in Black, by Johnny Cash, Columbia C 30550

This album is a good example of the new country music: Gone are the exaggerated nasal tones and the use of vocal imitations of older songs. Gone is the phony "Hee- Haw" type of cover. Gone are the cute lyrics putting down drugs while extolling the virtues of booze. Gone is the past.

Romantic Flight by Shuggie Otis, Columbia KC 30752

This album is difficult to describe. Shuggie Otis is the son of Johnny Otis, the man who built Rhythm and Blues into a major facet of American Music. Shuggie Otis is also an excellent musician who has been playing professionally since he was about 12. On this album he plays guitars, bass, keyboards, drums, bells, and does vocals. He also wrote almost all of the music and lyrics. All except the vocals are incredibly good. "Ice Cold Daydream" and "Strawberry Letter 23" have the best lyrics, as well as the best vocals. On the latter, now on the radio, Shuggie plays all of the instruments and does all of the vocals, including the background chorus. The title cut, "Freedom Flight," is a 12-48 long song, and it will probably never be heard on the radio because of its length. At least listen to this album.

"I dreamed I was a bird..." is a plea to be free, to fly.

"Alone as you are one..." says it, but, "You're ten years dead..."

I never died says he..."

Beavers’ Bubble Burst

The clock struck midnight on Halloween weekend for the Caltech Beavers, as the Cal Poly Pomona jayvees ended their current winning streak with a 19-3 victory.

John Roberts kicked a 29-yard field goal in the middle of the fourth quarter for the Beavers’ only score.

Statistically, Cal Poly was overwhelming. They passed for 200 yards, rushed for another 164, and were penalized 17 times for 156 yards. Each team made 18 first downs, however.

The second quarter proved to be extremely frustrating for the Tjcers. John Strub intercepted a Pomona pass on the Tech 40, and evaded tacklers to make it to the Pomona goaline. However, clipping penalty nullified the TD, and wiped out a 60-Beaver lead.

Later in the quarter, Caltech had the ball on the Cal Poly one with no timeouts left. Before another play could be run, the clock had run out, and so had the Beavers’ chances for another victory.

Soccer Team Comes Through, Finally Wins

The Caltech soccer team ended their winless season with a 2-1 victory over Claremont/Harvey Mudd Saturday.

The triumph was the first ever for a Caltech squad against C/HM. The past 45 years had yielded one tie, along with six losses.

With 32 seconds gone in the second period, C/HH made their only goal. The score was still 1-0 at the half, but was tied up by Charlie Young on a penalty shot in the third period.

Midway through the final period, Dana Anderson made a long shot from the right side to give the Beavers the win.

Water Polo Splits by Bob Kieckhefer

After "laughter" victory over Pierce JC last Wednesday, the water polo team lost a game to Redlands that was much closer than the 10-6 final score indicates.

Tech started out fast against the Pierce team, building a 2-0 first quarter lead. At the start of the second quarter Pierce tied a zone defense, which was quickly diagnosed and beaten by the Tech swimmers, helping them build an 8-1 halftime lead.

Both (7) of Tech’s substitutes played most of the second half, yet Pierce still couldn’t contain the home team. The final score was Caltech 13, Pierce 4, with Steven Sheffield (7 goals), Russ Desiderio (4), and Tim Hight (2) scoring for Tech. After the game Virgin Shields drew praise from both sides for his excellent performance in the goal-play, with a scratched eyeball he still shut off the opposition in two of the quarters.

Last Saturday morning in Tournament Park the tanksmen and Redlands played a close game for a large crowd (most of them from Redlands, unfortunately). The home team, building a 2-0 first half, but was tied up by Charlie Young on a penalty shot in the third period.

Midway through the final period, Dana Anderson made a long shot from the right side to give the Beavers the win.

Limited private money in national politics.

The Council for A Livable World was founded by scientists in 1962. Its primary objective has been to end the nuclear arms race, and its concentration has been upon the United States Senate. CFLW is not affiliated with either party and has given financial support to candidates in both parties. It has chosen candidates who are concerned with security problems.

Another main activity of the Council for A Livable World has been conducting seminars similar to the one at Caltech to encourage discussion of its objectives and to bring greater insight into national security problems.

Tankmen

The team played a typically slow first period, but bounced back in the second to tie the score at 3-3 at halftime. Redlands got a goal on a penalty shot in the third quarter, but Tech bounced back in the final period to grab a 5-4 lead.

The disadvantages of having a small team became obvious soon after this; however, as Tech's tired swimmers began losing ground to Redlands' fresh substitutes. A few quick goals in the middle of the period gave Redlands a lead they never relinquished, as they ran up a 104-6 final score. Steve Sheffield scored four goals while Tim Hight and Jim Jakway got one apiece in the losing effort.

Harriers Lose to Redlands

The return of captain Rachford Higgins to action was not enough, as the cross country squad was ripped by Redlands, 20-41.

Higgins finished tenth, close on the heels of two Redlands runners. Scott Matthews turned in another fine performance, finishing second on the 4.7 mile course.

Alan Kleinrnan came in sixth as the Techers' number two man. Newcomer (?) Kenny Pachol was eleventh, and Ralph Hayward twentieth.
